

General Discussion Questions on Freedom

Can true freedom exist without responsibility? How do writers explore this tension?

What role does society play in limiting or enabling freedom?

In what ways do class, race, or gender affect the characters' access to freedom?

Is freedom depicted as a gift, a right, or something that must be fought for?

In what ways does society restrict or liberate the character?

Is freedom possible, or is it an illusion?