

General Discussion Questions on Honor Killing

What cultural, religious, or social pressures contribute to the honor killing in the story?

Does the text present honor killing as an individual act of violence or a collective/ socially sanctioned one?

Compare the roles of fathers, brothers, or male community leaders.

Is there a character who attempts to challenge or redefine honor?
How successful are they?

Can a concept like “honor” ever justify violence?

What does the text suggest about the relationship between tradition and human rights?